FREE CONCERTS

From 2 pm

Every year since 1982, French people gather in the streets of the country to enjoy free concerts and celebrate the arrival of summer. This year again we want to share this event, an important part of French culture, with you!

Sonic Delusion playing at the Fête de la Musique 2017

During the afternoon, you will enjoy a wide range of musical genres: from classical music to pop, rock, folk or jazz... There will be something for everyone!

And to finish the day in a great atmosphere, Julia Paul and her two musicians will be entertaining us with their electro soul rhythms!

EVENING CONCERT

Julia Paul

The trio is the unexpected combination of three stories, three different music conceptions, three decades: Julia Paul, Johan Cazalas and David Le Roy. As soon as they got together in early 2015, things started to take off.

Julia was selected to take part in Juliette Solal stage coaching which was organized by the Poemart. In November 2015, the band played a big stage for the first time as Patrice's supporting act during the Mazik Festival. In 2016, Julia Paul easily won the Music Explorer contest on France Ô TV channel. After earning her place in The Voice France's 6th edition, the singer left the show a few steps away from the final.

This experience nurtured her music and consolidated the band's electronic tendencies and its desire to play all the instrumentation live, with no pre-recorded electronic sequences which is common practice for this type of music. Experts will enjoy the sound of live music being rearranged live.

The three musicians offered a much appreciated show during the La Rochelle Francofolies Festival in July 2017. Then, they played during New Caledonia Francofolies Festival in September 2017, and confirmed their huge talent and full stage mastery, with a definite electro show.
